BAD BLOOD

INVITES DISEASE

The blood supplies nourishment and strength to every part of the body when it is rich, pure and healthy. When from any cause it becomes diseased or weak it cannot supply the nutriment the system needs, and the body is unable to resist the diseases and troubles that are constantly assailing it to break down the health.

I have used S. S. and found it to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic. My blood was weak and inpure, and as a result my system became very much rundown and deblitated. I loat twenty or more pounds in weight, had no appetic and was in bad shape. Seeing S. S. advertised I began its use, and am well pleased with the results after using it for some little while. My system and general health have been wonderfully built up, and I no not hesitate to give B.S. S. the credit for it. H. MARTIN.

Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Catarrh, Old Sores, Malaria, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are the results of bad or diseased blood, and until this vital fluid is cleansed and made pure, strong and healthy, these diseases will continue. The greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics is S. S. S. It has been curing all diseases of the blood for more than forty years by going down to the very root of the trouble, forcing out all poisons and impurities and building up every part of the system by its fine tonic effect. however, swimming is coming to the fore, and the Casino managers will shorting in augurate a series of contests for indies, for which they will offer prizes. The course will most likely be a half-mile one over the mild and even surf, which continually runs off the Cape.

The regular hop which was scheduled to be given at the Casino Wednesday evening by the young people from Lynnhaven, was postponed on account of the death of one of the active members of the party. The young people had already assembled during the early part of the evening, but quietly withdrew when the rews came rather suddenly and unexpectedly.

Since the passing of the Paul Jones fleet, visitors have been on the alert to sight other vessels. On Saturday last was an occasion that excited a great deal of interest and most everyone rose at dawn in expectation of an early arrival. The Cape is particularly well situated to view such events, as the channel is located rather close to the point, affording a splendid view of the ships with the naked eye, and the cottages were filled to the utmost for the time being by people anxious to witness this history-making event. Since then the news that a fleet of warships will pass at any stated time always brings an inrush of visitors, many of whom have never seen one of them except in print. The view off shore from here at times is, in fact, a privilege that is prized very highly by a great many.

Miss Southgate, of Norfolk, is at the Miss Sue Hampton Tyler, the second daughter of ex-Governor and Mrs. J. Hoge Tyler, is a young woman of fine character and many sterling qualities of mind and personality.

Miss Tyler is an active and enthusiastic church worker. As president of the Ladies' Ald Society of Central Presbyterian Church, she gives laviship of her time, energy and skill, and by her inspiring leadership and practical business sense, accomplishes fine results.

She is also one of the best teachers in the Sunday schoot. Her class numbers seventeen, boys in their teens and young men just entering manhood, whom she has taught for the last four years, and in whose welfare she feels the deepest personal interest, stimulating their ambition, and by sympathetic, tactiful guidance, exerting a fine and uplifting influence. Beautiful to see is the attachment existing between teacher and pupils; equally beautiful the many kindly deeds quietly done the sick, the sad, the poor and afflicted, by this unselfish girl and her equally thoughtful, loving sisters.

Miss Tyler is a fine pedestrian. No day in winter is too bad for a cross country, walk of four or five miles—a custom to which Miss Tyler attributes her excellent health. In ten years she has only consulted a doctor twice, and then walked about two miles and back for the doctor's prescription. Any young girl may justly be proud of such a record. Miss Tyler strikingly exemplifies the Latin phrase, "Mens sana in corpore sono," of which we hear so much but see so little. Coupled with a clear and vigorous intellect, she possesses executive ability and the gift of leadership. Miss Tyler is a skilled housewife and has charge of the garden and flowers at Halwick. She takes great pride both in the fine vegetables with which she supplies the table and the beautiful flowers which adorn the home, notable among them being roses and chrysanthemums. ing sisters.
